

Your Claude Quick-Start Guide

3 pages to get you using AI to make your job easier — before the webinar even starts.

Claude is an AI assistant from Anthropic that can write, research, organize, and now — with the right setup — actually connect to your email, calendar, and files to save you real time. This guide walks you through getting set up in the next 10 minutes.

Step 1 — Download Claude

Claude works two ways: in your browser at claude.ai, or as a desktop/mobile app (search "Claude by Anthropic" in your app store or download from claude.ai/download). Most people start in the browser — it takes 60 seconds to create a free account with just an email address.

Step 2 — Consider Upgrading to Pro

The free plan is enough to try Claude out, but it limits how many messages you can send per day and caps you out of the most capable model. If you plan to use Claude regularly for your business, Claude Pro unlocks:

- Much higher usage limits, so you're not cut off mid-workday
- Access to Claude's most capable models for higher-quality writing and reasoning
- Projects — a way to keep all your files and instructions for one part of your business organized in one place
- Access to Connections and Routines (covered on the next page)

Connections & Routines

Step 3 — Set Up Connections

Connections let Claude securely read (and with your permission, act on) your real accounts — Gmail, Google Calendar, and more — instead of you copying and pasting information back and forth all day. Go to Settings > Connectors in Claude to turn these on.

- Gmail — ask Claude to summarize your inbox, draft replies, or find a specific email
- Google Calendar — ask Claude to check your schedule or find open times for a showing
- More connectors are added regularly, from CRMs to scheduling tools

You stay in control the whole time: Claude asks before sending anything on your behalf, and you can disconnect any tool whenever you want.

Step 4 — Set Up a Routine

A Routine is a task Claude runs automatically, on a schedule you set, without you having to remember to ask. A few examples real estate agents use:

- Every weekday morning: "Summarize any new leads from my inbox and draft a follow-up text for each."
- Every Friday afternoon: "Review my calendar for next week and flag any double-bookings."
- Every Monday: "Pull my new listings and draft a short social media post for each one."

You set it up once, and it just runs — one less thing on your plate every week.

Try It Today

You don't need to be technical to get value from Claude on day one. Here are three prompts you can copy, paste, and try right now:

1. Get organized

"Look at my inbox from the last 3 days and tell me which emails actually need a reply from me today."

2. Save time on writing

"Draft a friendly follow-up text and email for a lead who toured a property yesterday but hasn't responded since."

3. Plan your week

"Look at my calendar for next week and suggest the best 3 time blocks for prospecting calls."

See It All Put Together

This guide gets you started with Claude on your own. In the GetGoodTwin webinar, we show you how these same tools — combined with a real lead-capture system — recover deals that would otherwise slip through the cracks. Keep an eye on your inbox for your confirmation and reminder.
